- FAP-MD Komorowski: Digital and international competence is indispensable

Berlin, June 15, 2019. The FAP Group, one of the leading independent consulting companies for the procurement and structuring of capital for real estate investments and project developments in the German and in selected European markets has been able to win Helena Brunner as a new Senior Project Manager.

Helena Brunner has extensive experience in the area of classical and alternative real estate financing. In addition to her classical career in banking, her previous position was Head of Risk for the Internet platform Zinsbaustein.de.

Axel Komorowski, Managing Director of the FAP Group: “I am delighted about this highly competent addition to our team. In her previous positions, among others at BerlinHyp, Helena Brunner was able to cover a large range of topics in the area of real estate financing. With her, we have gained a well-versed analyst and strategist for traditional and alternative real estate financing. Her practical experience as a project financier and her in-depth knowledge of the national and international real-estate markets ideally complement the FAP-Group, in particular with respect to our continually growing activities, also internationally. In the age of digitalisation and internationalisation, digital competence and an international look beyond national horizons are essential. It is no longer sufficient merely to go with the times. With Helena Brunner, we welcome a colleague, who is also versed in modern information technologies and who will advance the international growth of the FAP Group with commitment in a real estate cosmos characterized by digitalisation.”
